

Thank You, Thank You!

That really says it all. We really could end the newsletter right there, but the boss guy preers I fill up both pages. This market season has been... an interesting one to say the least. From a pandemic to riots to mid October snow. It's been, well, 2020. Now, this weekend the farmers market season comes to an end. We want to take time to thank everyone who has made this 2020 season a success, and yes, it was truly a success!

Thank you to all our vendors for coming week in and week out, especially early in the season not knowing if we could even have a farmers market, let alone what it would look like. Your dedication, flexibility, and cooperation with all the changes and challenges this season did not go unnoticed!

Thank you to our staff. SO MANY MEETINGS... They dealt with all the same challenges as our vendors, but with the added responsibility of making sure our market stayed clean, safe and open. They knocked it out of the park!

Thank you most of all to you, our customers. Without you we're just a bunch of people standing next to tables of stuff for no reason. We were in awe every weekend as we looked out from the loading dock and saw all the people. Not just respectable sized crowds given we are in the middle of a pandemic, but that people were keeping their space, using our sanitation stations, and wearing their masks. One weekend we counted 96% of our customers wearing masks, and that was before the mandate! You are the backbone to this market and why we do this year after year. To see the happy faces, the bags full of produce or clothes or cheese, arms full of fresh flowers, enjoying some roasted corn or a woodier pizza, that is why we do this. Thank you, thank you, THANK YOU!

At 1:00 this Sunday, it's over for the year. Come April 24th, 2021, we will be back here, doing it all over again, rain or shine, hot or cold, masks or no masks, pandemic or no pandemic.

One last time: Thank you to everyone for another fantastic market season!

Blizzard of '91

Since everyone was sharing their Blizzard of '91 stories this past week: the Chicken was chilling here in 1991 when it started snowing. He stuck it out, at least till the snow got up to his tail feathers. That's when he threw up his wings, left and hung out at Lee's Liquor Lounge the rest of the week.

Pumpkins!!!

Despite Mother Nature thinking otherwise, Halloween is next weekend. Snow or no snow, trick or treating or not, you still need to carve pumpkins, right? This weekend is your last chance to pick your pumpkin from the Ertz Family pumpkin patch. They will be here this Saturday (and hopefully Sunday too) with pumpkins, hay bales, corn stalks, gourds and more. Get them before they run out.

Our neighbors on the north side of the market are also having a tote bag give away this Sunday. Between that, pumpkins, hot food, and all the other vendors who will be here, why not make one last trip to the farmers market this weekend!

Winter Decor In Stock Now

As the farmers market comes to an end, we jump right into the holiday season (despite Mother Nature getting the jump on us). The Annex is ready for the holidays!

Spruce tops and evergreen boughs are in stock NOW! We will then be open with those along with, winterberry, magnolia, birch logs, and much more. We also make, on site, the best looking patio pots, wreaths, garland and door swags you'll find in town. Of course, we have Christmas Trees too! Lots and lots of them hanging from our three pavilions. Come visit us this holiday season and see for yourself why this is the best tree lot in town.

Holiday Market

The Farmers Market Annex will be hosting a holiday market this Christmas season! Weekends, starting Thanksgiving weekend we will have a nice mix of vendors (both normal farmers market vendors as well as others), the beer garden, santa, and plenty of other COVID friendly family fun. Follow us on Facebook and Instagram as we announce more details in the coming weeks!
